C&L Aerospace Purchases ATR Inventory from Intertrade

C&L continues to invest in the ATR 42/72 aircraft.

BANGOR, Maine – C&L Aerospace, A C&L Aviation Group company, has purchased a package of ATR inventory from Intertrade. As part of the transaction, C&L has acquired over 1,400-line items to be added to their existing ATR inventory. All parts from the program are now stocked in C&L’s UK and Bangor, ME, USA warehouses and available for sale or exchange.

“The purchase of this inventory package reinforces C&L’s commitment to be a leader in offering ATR support solutions for the global market,” said Martin Cooper, Senior Vice President of Sales at C&L Aerospace. “This purchase, combined with seven ATR teardowns we have completed in the past 18 months provide a significant inventory to support operators.”

Parts from this purchase will bolster existing inventory and be used to support C&L’s robust ATR support programs by offering items ranging from new and overhauled, serviceable and repaired condition.

This inventory is inspected and has gone through a cataloging process which includes photographing and barcoding the parts and corresponding documentation making purchases faster, easier and more transparent for the customer. The inventory is now available for sale or exchange.
